

A.O.C.N.C.

PRESENTS

Canine behavior myths and theory

AOCNC-sponsored FREE seminar by Dr. Melissa Bain
Chief of Service of the Clinical Animal Behavior Service
University of California, Davis

Sunday, September 26, 2010

at Mount Diablo Dog Training Club Facility
1027A Detroit Avenue, Concord CA 94518

9:00 a.m. – 4:00 p.m. (please be there by 8:30 a.m.)

Melissa Bain, DVM, DACVB, MS, Assistant Professor of Clinical Animal Behavior, is board-certified in veterinary behavior. In 2007 she received a master's degree in advanced clinical research from the University of California School of Medicine. She is the immediate past-president of the American Veterinary Society of Animal Behavior, and current president-elect of the American College of Veterinary Behaviorists. Her responsibilities include student and resident education, clinical case management, and research. Her areas of research focus have been clinical domestic animal behavior problems and human-animal bond issues, including research on dog-parks and the effects of different training methods on the behavior of dogs.

$12 lunch and refreshment fee for all attending

Each AOCNC Member Club may send three participants and may also list standbys for probable unfilled spaces. Reservations close September 10, 5 p.m.

Contact your club's representative to sign up.